

INTT EURO COSMETICS LDA

Dear Valued Customer,

We hereby issue this formal declaration to clarify the interpretation of our batch numbers, which indicate both the production date of our cosmetic products and their corresponding expiration dates.

To clarify our batch numbering: under EU law, cosmetics do not need a production expiration date on the packaging. The required information is the period-after-opening. We recommend using the product within 6 months after opening.

Regarding the batch number Interpretation, the structure of our batch numbers is composed by 8 characters, as follows:

First four characters: they are composed of digits and do not contain date-related information.

Fifth character (letter): Indicates the production month. The first letter of the alphabet corresponds to January, and so forth." e.g:

A = January, B = February, C = March, D = April

Sixth and seventh characters (digits): Represent the year of production, e.g:

23 = 2023, 24 = 2024, 25 = 2025

Final character: Indicates the internal order of production. This information is for internal use only and is not relevant for determining the expiration date.

Knowing that all our products carry a minimum shelf life of three (3) years, below is an example of how to read the batch number of the product Vibration Blackberry:

Batch Number: 0185J23A - produced in October 2023 with expiration date in October 2026

0185: Random code that can vary with each batch.

J: Represents the month. In this case, "J" refers to October (the 10th month).

23: Indicates the year of production, here it would be 2023.

A: This letter denotes the internal order of production.

So this batch was produced in October 2023 and expires in October 2026. By utilizing this format, you can interpret all batch numbers in the same way.

We trust this explanation provides the necessary clarity. Should you require further information, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Thank you.

With the warmest regards,

Stephanie Saitz Maza
